Colgate Defeated.

The tennis team broke even for the season by the defeat of our Colgate rivals on last Saturday. Thus the series of intercollegiate matches was fittingly closed. Rain prevented final proof of the superiority of our team, but before the weather interfered the score had been run up to 4-0, including three of the single matches and one of the double. The quality of tennis played by the opponents was mediocre, hardly of collegiate calibre, and in no way surpassed that which we see every day upon the courts.

Sicard won an easy victory over his man with a score of 6-4, 6-2, although Hatch played excellent tennis at times. This gives Sicard a clean record for the season.

Conklin had his first opportunity of playing before the College team and he put up a very creditable game. He was a little nervous at first, but when he had fully entered with heat and fervor into the game he played well. His discretion in playing the ball and his sureness at the net are especially commendable and he confirmed his former promise of becoming a star. The sets between Conklin and King were 7-5.

And in like manner went the other games. Sherman played uncertainly during his first set, but became steadier and easily won the next two sets with the score 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. Bramley found a hard man in King. The first set was 5-7. The second was the hardest fought battle of the season, fortune favoring now one and now the other of the contestants until it became a matter of endurance as well as skill, and in this Bramley won out with a score of 13-11 and scored two games on the next set before the rain finally checked them.

Of the doubles, Sicard, Day, Hatch, and Green played and the rain found the score in our favor, 6-2, 2-0. Had not the weather prevented, the match would doubtless have been a clean sweep, so ending up the 1906 season in true Hamilton fashion. As it is we close with a fair record, having won two matches and lost ten.

Intercollegiate Track Meet.

The tenth annual intercollegiate track meet of the New York State Intercollegiate Athletic Union was held on Steuben Field on Decoration Day. The day was bright and sunny, although a cold wind made the conditions unfavorable for fast time in the various events. Colgate won the meet with 53 points, Hamilton was second with 45 points and Rochester was third with 19. The only first that Rochester secured was in the pole vault where Wood did 10 ft 3 in. During the greater part of the meet, Hamilton was safely ahead of her competitors. Smith, who was expected to win the two-mile for Hamilton, had run the mile previously and consequently was too weak to last the race out. Montgomery missed count of his laps and sprinted the seventh so that he could not finish. Consequently Wood walked in for Rochester. Two records were broken by Hamilton men during the meet. Carroll, '06, broke the high jump record of 5 ft. 5 in. held by McLaughlin, '03, May, '03, going 5 ft. 5¾ in. This also broke the intercollegiate record for this Union. Ferris, '06, broke the broad jump record of 21 ft. 2 in. McLaughlin '01, going 21 ft. 4 in.

All of the races were well contested. In the high hurdles Sicard all but beat Castleman. They were neck and neck at the finish, but Castleman threw himself at the tape, winning by a fraction of a second. Castleman won his other events easily and helped out Colgate's score very materially. Without him the meet would have been an easy victory for Hamilton. Colgate was handicapped by the fact that their crack half-miler, Sisson, was not in the meet. In the half-mile Grossmeyer won easily, not being pushed at any time. Mansfield made a plucky fight in this race and finished third for Hamilton. In the quarter, Stevens fell at the start and tripped McLean. They both had a hard fall, but McLean finished the race, not getting a place, however. Smith made a fine finish in the mile, after having been boxed for three laps by the Colgate men. The fine weather drew many people from Utica, who apparently enjoyed the meet very much.

For the good management of the meet much credit is due Drummond, '06, who served very efficiently as Clerk of Course. The results:

Clark, Hamilton; Rood, Hamilton.

The Cornell Tennis Match.

For a second time within a week the Hamilton tennis team tasted the new bitterness of defeat, but from opponents of such fibre that the defeat was not inglorious. Still, following as it did so closely upon the Union match, it was keenly felt. Although Cornell won all but one of the singles, the aggregates show how well the battle was fought, Cornell winning 67 games and Hamilton 57. The playing throughout the game was fast. Cornell served a swift ball and was strong on drives and smashes. Our men as usual played a steady placing game that could only have been beaten by the brilliant play of their opponents.

The most interesting play of the match was by Sicard and Chase. Chase recently scored a victory against the holder of the intercollegiate championship, so that the game was watched with unusual interest, and especially after Chase won the first set 3-6. Sicard, however, won easily in the next two sets, thereby covering himself with glory. The sets were 6-4, 6-2.

Bramley was less successful in his match with Burlingame, losing with the score of 1-6, 4-6. Sherman fared no better with a score of 3-6, 1-6.

Day played a brilliant game during his first set with Seel and won easily with a score of 6 to 1. But the first hard game began to tell and he gave way in the next two sets 4-6, 4-6. Although Day was easily better than his man, a blister on his hand threw him entirely off his game.

The first set of the doubles was devoid of special interest. Chase and Burlingame continued their fast, offensive game, and Bramley and Sherman played cautiously. The first set was 6-0, but our men got together in the second set and by good team work held the score down to 6-4. The other match of doubles was hard fought and lasted over two hours. The first set was won by Hamilton 6-3 and Cornell scored 6-4 in the second. The last and deciding set was prolonged to the point of tiresomeness the score running up to 9-7, including a large number of deuce games. It is safe to say that, altogether, the match was as good tennis as has been seen on the College courts.

Prize Speakers.

The prize speakers from the three under classes were announced Friday morning in chapel. They are the following: 1907, Allen, Masee, Day, Gros-meyer; 1908, Dunwell, Weeks, Simmons, White; 1909, Leavenworth, Truax, McLean, Williams.

The Pentagon Elections.

The Pentagon elections from the Class of 1907 have been made. Swetman, Scoon, Schwartz, Jerome and E. M. Clark were chosen.

The Last Game.

On Tuesday the baseball team goes to Hamilton to play Colgate in our last game of the season. In the other game they worsted us though we played good ball. With a bit faster brand of baseball and by the law of chances victory should be ours on Tuesday. The best way to invite Dame Fortune to our help is by strong Hamilton yelling. The cutless ones will be the only ones with any sort of an excuse for being absent from the game.

THE ADOPTION OF A SET of rules for the regulation of elections was a step in advance. The urgent need of such a set of rules was realized by the college, as their unanimous adoption attests. Next week these rules will be reprinted in such form that they may be kept close at hand by all students. Everyone should make himself familiar with them, as all elections not carried out according to them will be invalid.

INNOVATIONS SEEM TO MOVE slowly here on the Hill. A change that should be brought about at once, however, is to standardize the stickers for the suit cases. At present we have stickers of nearly all the colors of the rainbow, and of various sizes and shapes. Where a man is fortunate enough to have two or three kinds, his case presents an extremely heterogeneous and disorderly appearance. The stickers should be of uniform size, shape and color, differentiated only by the printing. A very little thought and interest by members of the Advisory Board would bring this much needed reform about.

THE UTICA OBSERVER on Monday night, under the heading, "The Progress of Hamilton College," printed an interesting sketch of the College and its advancement during the last ten years or so. The facts and figures of the article warrant the sub-caption "wonderful increase in size and efficiency." Since 1892 the total permanent funds of the College have increased from $357,000 to $577,000. New buildings erected during this time are the Hall of Science, Hall of Languages, Hall of Philosophy, Hall of Commons, Carnegie Hall, the Chemical Laboratory and New South College. The library has been increased from 32,000 volumes to 46,000 volumes. The best part of the story is that the work has only just begun, and under the present vigorous administration, which has done so much during the past decade, neither the man nor the means will be lacking for still further advancement.

AS THE ANNUAL CLARK PRIZE contest approaches the usual murmurs of dissatisfaction are overheard. In the minds of some it is hardly thought fair that the faculty should act as judges. Unless we are much mistaken the endowment was made under the express stipulation that the members of the faculty should act as judges, and as long as K. P. exists the faculty will make the award. The manner of judging the orations has also been adversely criticised. However, it seems fitting that a committee of the faculty should select the contestants. We have a distinctive style of oratory here on the Hill and none is fully competent to judge who himself does not understand the Hamilton style. There is small opportunity in this manner of selection for any prejudice to creep in. Unless a professor has a knowledge of some one's oration he is in the dark as to the authorship, save in the cases where the style is recognizable. In judging the exhibition, the same knowledge of our methods and ideals is valuable. At the same time, the complaint is often made that other influences than the merits of the speakers may enter in the judgment given. That this is possible no one can deny. But our faculty has always had the reputation of being eminently fair and just. Things which would tend to influence an undergraduate, a mature man would not even consider. In fact, judges in debate and declamation chosen from outsiders more often give popular dissatisfaction than do the faculty. The same trivial matters may influence them. They may have no desire to satisfy our ideals.

So, on the whole, we think the present arrangement is pretty good. The faculty is part of us and yet apart from us. They know the requirements; they know what is good and what is bad. It is to their interest to be fair. No other plan that we know of could be more satisfactory.

The May Lit.

Disfigured by an extremely ugly shade of buff the May Lit. has appeared and finishes the volume.

Stryker, '06, furnishes his usual contribution in the shape of a poem on Keats. It is really good and of much better calibre than usual.

"Keats" is followed by a letter from S. N. D. North, expressing his appreciation of the reception accorded to that truly praiseworthy book, "Old Greek."

"The Assimilative Power of America," by J. H. Edgerton, '06, is a curious admixture of philosophy, sociology, with several other "ologies" on their heels. It shows no little thought and preparation, however, and the treatment and selection of the subject matter is especially well fitted for a college Lit.

"Thomas B. Reed," an oration by E. M. Clark, '07, is good as far as Hamilton orations are good. It is, however, too deeply ensnared with pedantic phrases, and the places where a gesture was thought out in the writing are far too prominent and numerous.

In "The Mermaid Question" W. B. Simmons, '08, has entered, it seems, a new field of impossibility. We are hoping against hope that this so-called story will not lead to others of like merit. Decidedly "Chambersesque" in its treatment, the author leads us through a number of cleverly wrought phrases, beginning nowhere and ending where we began.

"A Lyric in the Spring," by A. M. Drummond, '06, is really good, but reminds us too much of some poetical masterpiece we have read in times past. A search has failed to bring this old poem to light, so we will omit any specification as to its authorship.

"To a Harpsichord," by W. T. Purdy, '06, and an "Ode on the Last Days of College Life" complete the issue. Both are fair.

Criticus gathers plunder from the battlefield of the football discussion, and ends with a paragraph of exceptionally good common sense. We agree heartily with his views.

Alumniana is of the usual sort, and is, as usual, the most valuable part of the Lit.

The Rochester Game.

On May 26 Hamilton lost her last game of the trip to Rochester by a score of 10 to 1. The game was lost in the first two innings by Rochester batting Haven out of the box, getting a total of thirteen hits. Haven was not in his usual form by any means and the team did not give him fair support.

Brown went in the box in the third inning and held Rochester down to two hits for the remainder of the game. But the Varsity were not able to connect with Harrington's curves as they did here on the Campus. The only run during the game was made by LeMunyan in the second inning, when he made a home-run. Clark and White played steady games for Hamilton, while Reed and Grant did good work for Rochester. Cody did well at the bat.

—The building up and covering of some of our poor paths this week, we must not pass unnoticed. Now, let someone attend to the Arbor walk.

—"Snitzie" shocked the more pious of the Freshmen on Monday by stating, that Sunday always seemed to have a demoralizing effect upon young men.

—"Woodie" and "Davie" took to the woods last Saturday and thereby some welcome cuts were received. "Bob" Peck, '07, also sneaked away to the woods last week, under pretext of studying the language of the punkies. His real motive was to escape Hamiltonian criticism.

—The standing of the competitors for the LIFE reportorial positions is now as follows: Osborne, Rifenburg, Hopkins, McLean, Gooding, Felt and Busfield. It might be timely to note that contestants are given credit for material although not printed, if it is legitimate news and properly available for LIFE.

—Everyone be at the Park in Clinton, tonight at 6:30. The D. T. Neophytes are rivaling the famous dancing bears which visited the Hill Thursday night, in the attention which they create by their antics. They will be on the job and will be sure to create a good impression, as they have been rehearsing for several weeks for this performance.

—The Cripples' Club has still another addition and this time one whom neither crutches nor a cane will help. Kazenstein, '09, when riding down the lower part of the Hill on a bicycle Thursday night, suddenly encountered two people, and seeing he was in danger of running into them, turned off the walk. The result was a broken nose and a badly disfigured face.

—Gilbert, '07, was heard immoderately deploring the fact that he must attend "Woodie." His cunning classmate had assured him of the fact and had entered the building in proof thereof. Nothing daunted, he hobbled heroically across the Campus, whizzed up the stairs to the tune of the last bell and entered an empty classroom. It is said that many lurid, ominous sounds issued from the room, but this is only rumor.

—Coach Watson left the Hill for good last Sunday. He has turned out successful teams in his stay with us and at the same time has won the respect and confidence of the fellows. His familiar figure on the track in his baseball togs, on the gridiron, or while taking a sunbath in the grandstand, we shall surely miss. Upon us he has left a good and lasting impression. We trust the old Hill did not strike him amiss.

—The inclemency of the weather prevented the progress in the tennis tournament matches that was looked for. All games of the second round have been played off and one in the third. Aron defeated Beck, '08, 6-2, 6-1, Beck having beaten Hopkins with a score of 6-0, 6-1. Simmons scored over Aron 7-5, 6-3. It is now late in the season and it is highly desirable that the sets be played off without delay.

—The appearance of a troop of bears and Sicilians, otherwise known as Dagoes, upon the Campus caused much merriment among the students Thursday. After a liberal outpouring of small coins the bears, three in number, performed all the customary tricks of the profession. Another contribution purchased a wrestling match, and still a third extortion followed, whereat a chubby little bear, singularly like "Fat" Lyon, climbed a tree, much to the delectation of all.

—The newest furor on the Hill has been the establishing of a Job Lots tennis team. Cody with his blacksmithish smashing, "Keck" Holley, Pratt and the invincible Bennett make up the team. Rules are improvised as the game progresses. Bennett has shown himself especially capable at placing the balls so that a return is impossible, knocking them across several acres of plowed ground. Brilliant work was done by all concerned and we expect soon to hear that they have challenged the Varsity.

—The advance cards for the Freshman Frolic appeared last week—rather earlier than usual. There is to be a special car back to "Ute" that night which will probably leave Clinton about 3 a. m. From the number of fellows rushing around with cards and pencils it would seem that the affair is to be a success, at least financially, and in view of the efforts of the committee the chances are that the Freshmen will prove their calibre socially.

—The scrub met the Varsity baseball team Tuesday and suffered an ignominious defeat. The features of the game were the batting of the scrub, the base running of Bennett and the coaching of Captain MacDonald. Spedick made himself notorious by trying to cover all the outfield and most of the infield, and in so doing got himself into numerous petty scraps. As the official scorer left before the end of the game, no score is to be had, an approximate estimate being about 20 to 1.

—The dedication of Plymouth Church on Oneida Square, Utica, is to be the occasion for the presence of many prominent speakers. Among the number Hamilton College has two representatives. President Stryker is to give an address in the church tomorrow evening and Rev. Oren Root will speak on Tuesday evening. Rev. A. V. Bliss, pastor of the new church, was present at the Y. M. C. meeting on last Sunday afternoon, and after a most interesting and practical talk, invited all college men to attend the dedication services.
